PAUL L. SNYDER

Owner and President
Buffalo Braves Basketball Club

Quietly but efficiently Paul Snyder has gone about the job of bringing a National Basketball Association championship to the fans of Western New York.

Snyder, who has made his home in Buffalo for 20 years, put the Braves on their present progressive course when he purchased the club on Oct. 13, 1970, the day prior to the first regular season game played by the Braves in the team's inaugural 1970-71 season.

Snyder has proceeded to build the Braves into a winner in the same manner in which he developed Freezer Queen Foods, Inc., of Buffalo into the largest processor of frozen meat products in the United States.

He has formed one of the NBA's finest front offices and then spared nothing to sign what is probably the best collection of young players in all of pro basketball. In today's competitive battle for basketball talent, Paul Snyder rates "A" for the signing of such highly sought players as 7-foot Elmore Smith, 1972-73 NBA Rookie of the Year Bob McAdoo and exciting Ernie DiGregorio.

With Ernie D in the lineup this might be the year in which Snyder's investments begin to produce the Braves' first playoff contender.

A member of the varsity football and wrestling teams at the University of Buffalo, from which he graduated in 1957, Snyder went on to develop business, social and recreational interests that have tied him closely to the Western New York community.

He founded Freezer Queen Foods, Inc., in 1958 and in just a few short years developed it into its top standing in the frozen foods industry. When Freezer Queen merged into the Nabisco Company in 1970, Snyder became Nabisco's largest shareholder and a Nabisco corporate officer. He has continued as President and Chairman of Freezer Queen Foods, Inc.

A longtime devotee of family recreational activities, Snyder also is President and Owner of the Snyder-Darien Corporation that operates Snyder's Darien Lake, a family recreation resort near Corfu, N. Y., and various real estate properties throughout Western New York.

Snyder will introduce the Circle S Ranch, complete with ranch house, restaurant & riding trails adjacent to Darien Lake in 1974.

Snyder is a member of the Board of Trustees of Rosary Hill College, the Board of Directors of Liberty National Bank and Trust Company and the Board of Governors of the National Basketball Association.

IT'S A NEW BRAVE WORLD

By RUDY MARTZKE
Publicity Director, Buffalo Braves

It is generally regarded that it takes five years to build a contending team out of an expansion franchise in the National Basketball Association.

The Buffalo Braves are entering their fourth season. They've had to suffer for three seasons while taking advantage of the high choices they've received in the annual college draft.

Now, as a result of using their draft choices wisely in off-season trades, The Braves may be able to challenge for a playoff berth in the Eastern Division playoffs this season.

First, General Manager Eddie Donovan dealt former No. 1 choice John Hummer and a No. 2 draft choice in 1974 to Chicago for 6-6 forward Gar Heard and 7-foot rookie center Kevin Kunnert of Iowa, the Bulls' No. 1 draft choice this season.

A week later the Braves made an even bigger trade, sending 7-foot two-year center Elmore Smith to Los Angeles for budding superstar forward Jim McMillian, a 6-5 shooter in his fourth season from Los Angeles.

These moves were made to mould a team that would mesh best with the many talents of the club's No. 1 draft choice this season, 6-foot Ernie DiGregorio of Providence. Ernie D is at his best when he is running, and you can be sure the Braves will run this season.

The trades involving the frontliners means that three-year All-Star Game participant Bob Kauffman, 6-8, will move back, at least temporarily, to the center position where he first became a star three years ago. At forward last season he finished ninth in the NBA in field goal percentage with .505 while averaging 17.5 points a game.

Kauffman will be backed up by Kunnert, the Big 10 Conference's leading rebounder and field goal percentage shooter, last year and 6-11 Paul Ruffner from Brigham Young, who has experience with Chicago of the NBA and Pittsburgh of the ABA.

The trades also left the Braves with a problem they've never enjoyed before—depth at forward. The corner posts are expected to be manned by 6-10 1972-73 NBA Rookie of the Year Bob McAdoo, who averaged almost 23 points and 11 rebounds in his final 51 games last season, and McMillian, who already has seen service in 44 playoff games at the age of 25, is regarded by many as the best young forward in the NBA. He surely is the small, quick running forward head coach Jack Ramsay has been seeking.

Heard, who played his first two years at Seattle, came into his own with a 10.1 scoring average at Chicago last year. He will be an asset as the No. 3 forward and occasional starter.

A couple of rookies, 6-5 Mike Macaluso of Canisius, 6-7 Jim Garvin of Boston University are battling for the remaining spots.

A classy, heady ball-handler, Ernie D is the most exciting player to enter the NBA in several years and he is regarded as the frontrunner to follow McAdoo as the League's Rookie of the Year. The leader of America's Spring series triumph over the Russians is expected to be the catalyst or quarterback the Braves' attack has sadly lacked. Ernie D surprised friends and foes alike by excelling on every level of competition he has played, and there's no reason to believe that his ability will fail him now.

The remaining backcourt opening will be fought between returning veterans Randy Smith, 6-3, Dave Wohl, 6-2, and Butch Komives, 6-1, and newcomer 6-3 rookie Ken Charles of Fordham, the sleeper of the group.

Randy averaged 14.8 points and three steals a game as a starter the last half of 1972-73 while Wohl averaged 8.8 ppg and Komives 6.1.

Again, the key is Ernie D. If he can stand up under the pressure of his press clippings, he can help mould the Braves into a contender in their pivotal fourth NBA season.

EDDIE DONOVAN

Vice President and General Manager

Donovan, the former St. Bonaventure head coach who constructed the World Champion 1969-70 New York Knicks, has drafted and traded wisely during the building years of the Braves—so wisely that NBA foes are predicting the Braves are to be the next great team in pro basketball.

Donovan has constructed a formidable, youthful roster that includes No. 1 choices like 6-10 1972-73 NBA Rookie of the Year Bob McAdoo, ball handling wizard Ernie DiGregorio and 7-foot Kevin Kunnert along with Jim McMillian and Gar Heard, who, like Kunnert, were acquired in masterful trades. And catquick guard Randy Smith was a seventh round draft choice.

Donovan's expertise was most evident in the selection of McAdoo and DiGregorio. The Braves gambled on Big Mac, even though he had signed with Virginia of the ABA, and won when McAdoo's ABA contract was nullified because he signed it while still a minor. Picking third in the 1973 draft the Braves came up with the plum of the current college crop when Ernie D went on to dribble and pass circles around the Russians before a national television audience.

Eddie used the same operating premise to mold the Knicks into world champions in the six years he served as their General Manager after three and a half seasons as head coach. The Knicks came from the depths of the NBA to compile a 242-207 record (.539) from 1964-70 with Donovan as General Manager, capped by the 60-22 mark in the title year of 1969-70, Eddie's last before taking over the Braves' reins.

Among Donovan's draft choices on the championship Knicks were five No. 1 picks—Bill Bradley and Dave Stallworth (1965), Cazzie Russell (1966), Walt Frazier (1967) and Bill Hosket (1968)—and a second round selection, Willis Reed (1964). In addition Mike Riordan was a 12th round choice and Don May a third round pick. Eddie also proved himself in the trading mill, dealing for Dave DeBusschere and Dick Barnett.

Donovan's move to Buffalo gives him a chance to prove a longtime personal belief—that Western New York is one of the greatest areas for sports in the country.

He knew it was true when he coached St. Bonaventure to an eight-year mark of 139-57 (.709) and several times played before large crowds in Buffalo Memorial Auditorium. His teams participated in five post season tournaments and the 1960 Bonnies with Tom Stith and Freddie Crawford attained a No. 2 national ranking.

Donovan's prophesy came true in 1971-72, in only his second year at the Braves' helm, when Buffalo boosted its attendance 72 percent over the previous season to an average of 8646, the highest increase in the NBA.

It normally takes several years to build a champion, but Eddie is trying to speed that timetable in order to reward the fans of Western New York for their tremendous support of the Braves.

Donovan starred at St. Patrick's High in his hometown of Elizabeth, N. J., before going on to play basketball at St. Bonaventure in Olean. He then served a pair of two-year stints as an assistant coach for the Bonnies and as head coach at Olean High before becoming St. Bonaventure head coach in 1953.

Eddie and his wife, Marge, reside in Orchard Park. They are the parents of five children: Mickey 20, Nancy 18, Tim 17, Mary 16 and Sean 13.

GEORGE J. KING

Exec. Vice President, Snyder-Darien Corporation

When Paul Snyder set about to pick a man to head the Braves' administrative staff, he couldn't have selected a more qualified person than George King.

George has many years of experience in the sports and educational field as well as an extensive background in finance, management and administration.

His capabilities in organizing and supervising the Braves' staff already have established Buffalo as one of the strongest franchises in the National Basketball Association in just three short years of operation. The Braves increased their attendance more than any other team in 1971-72 to an average of 8,646 per game, 7th best of 17 NBA teams.

A native of New York State, King mixed service in the Navy during World War II and the Korean Conflict with obtaining his Bachelor's Degree from Cortland State College and his Master's from the University of Buffalo. At Cortland State he was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

He then taught and coached in the Auburn, N. Y., Public Schools prior to six years of service as wrestling coach and trainer at the University of Buffalo.

The establishment in 1958 of his own private school—the Royalton Private School in Cocoa Beach and Cape Kennedy—then launched a varied, 13-year career of public service in Florida. King became totally involved in the growing Cape Kennedy area as he was elected to two four-year terms as County Commissioner of Brevard County and served on the Board of Directors of two banks as well as serving as Senior Vice-President of Cape Kennedy Federal Savings and Loan Association, all in addition to operating the Royalton School.

King was appointed by Governor Claude Kirk of Florida to serve on the State Civil Defense Advisory Board and by President Lyndon B. Johnson to serve on the Public Officials Advisory Council to R. Sargent Shriver in the Office of Economic Opportunity.

When George accepted the Executive Vice-Presidency of the Buffalo Braves in 1971 he had served for two years as Executive Assistant to the President of Florida Technological University in Orlando. He recently was elected a Trustee and director of the FTU Foundation and a member of the Braves' Board of Directors.

George and his wife, Elane, reside in Orchard Park. They have four children: Robert, 23, Christine, 20, Lynann, 18 and George, 6.

JACK RAMSAY

Head Coach

The 1972-73 season was only Jack Ramsay's second losing campaign in 16 years of coaching college and professional basketball.

But while it figures that the Braves will take their lumps in their formative years, Ramsay's acknowledged expertise in molding young players into a cohesive effective unit should result in a winning team very soon.

His teams at St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia won 234 games and lost only 72 in eleven years, a .765 percentage. Ramsay, 48, never had a losing season as his Hawks either won or shared seven Philadelphia Big Five championships and participated in 10 major post-season tournaments.

And then Jack spent a successful 6-year term with the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association, the last four of them as head coach after he directed the club to the NBA title in 1966-67 as general manager. He was the 76ers GM from 1966-70 before devoting his time solely to coaching. He piloted the 76ers to a pair of runner-up finishes and a third place while qualifying for the playoffs three times. His Philadelphia teams won 174 and lost 154 games for a .530 percentage, the 1971-72 record of 30-52 becoming his only losing season in history.

Ramsay's 15-year college and pro coaching percentage of .644—408 victories and just 226 losses—prior to his initial 21-61 log with the expansion Braves ranks him as one of basketball's all-time great coaches.

The author of "Pressure Basketball", one of the most highly regarded basketball publications, and the possessor of a Doctorate in Education from the University of Pennsylvania, Ramsay certainly is well qualified to turn the youthful Braves team into an NBA winner.

In the collegiate and then the professional ranks Jack has been recognized as one of the leading innovators and a gentleman who continually studies the game's progress and adjusts to keep up with the various changes. Much of his success has come from the use of the pressing defense and he will seek to incorporate that into the style of the Braves, who have been one of the league's weaker defensive teams.

Ramsay, who tripled as coach, athletic director and teacher at St. Joseph's, also played his college ball at the Philadelphia school.

In the summer of 1970 Ramsay taught basketball fundamentals in Rome to young Italian players and also instructed coaches in basketball rudiments. He put his teaching talents to good use again last summer in conducting well attended practices for Braves' players in Buffalo with the hopes that the effort will pay off in a quick start in the NBA title race.

Ramsay earned his Master's Degree as well as his Doctorate at the University of Pennsylvania. He and his wife, Jean, reside in Williamsville. They have five children: Susan 23, John 21, Sharon 19, Christopher 13, and Carolyn 14.

BOB MacKINNON

Assistant Coach — Head Scout

Bob's first year with the Braves resulted in an excellent crop of Draft choices as well as a great deal of respect gained among the scouting fraternity in the National Basketball Association.

The popular MacKinnon, 45, distinguished himself for the 13 years as Head Coach at Canisius College after starring as a player for the Golden Griffins while obtaining his undergraduate degree. The famous Memorial Auditorium doubleheaders, highlighted by the annual December Queen City Classic, can be credited to MacKinnon, who also served as Canisius Athletic Director.

Prior to being named head coach of the Golden Griffins, he was an assistant coach under Joe Curran at Canisius for five years.

Bob was a football, basketball and baseball star at Buffalo's McKinley High. He continued to excel in the latter two sports at Canisius, from which he graduated in 1950. MacKinnon was selected to the All-Memorial Auditorium team in his junior and senior years and to the Sporting News second All-America Squad as a senior captain for the Griffs.

He also was picked to the Notre Dame all-opponent team which included Alex Groza and Ed Macauley, and was named most valuable player in a series of benefit games in which Bob Cousy participated.

Following graduation MacKinnon played professional baseball in the Brooklyn Dodgers chain and pro basketball with the Syracuse Nationals. He also coached the Canisius High basketball team, compiling a 36-2 record in two championship seasons.

Bob takes an active interest in youth activities having conducted several summer basketball and sports camps in the Buffalo area.

MacKinnon's most memorable year as Canisius coach was the 1962-63 season when he was named Eastern Collegiate Basketball Coach of the Year after his Griffins finished with a 19-7 record and a second place to Providence in the National Invitational Tournament in New York.

Bob and his wife, Norma, and their five children—Kim, 16; Pam, 14; Nancy, 13; Bobby, 12; and Lisa, 6—reside in Williamsville.

RAY MELCHIORRE

Trainer, Traveling Secretary

The trainer for the Pittsburgh Condors of the American Basketball Association from 1970-72, Melchiorre quickly distinguished himself as a hard-working and respected part of the Braves' staff.

A native of Philadelphia, Pa., Melchiorre, 35, is responsible for formulating the Braves' travel plans as well as seeing to the training needs of the players.

Prior to becoming one of the most capable trainers in the ABA while with the Condors, Ray served four years as head trainer and baseball coach at Bethel College in McKenzie, Tenn., from which he graduated.

Among Melchiorre's honors are selection as trainer for the 1970 East-West All-American Basketball Game in Memphis, Tenn., and the Kentucky-Tennessee college all-star games the same year in Nashville, Tenn., and Louisville, Ky.

Ray also served in the medical service corps at Fort Sam Houston in Texas, Fort Knox, Ky., and Ankara, Turkey. While in the army he was a distance runner and competed in the 5,000 yard run.

Ray and his wife, Liz, reside in Williamsville with their two children, Kathy 5, and Lisa Joy, 4 months.

GEORGE DADDARIO

Vice President, Sales and Marketing

An accomplished professional baseball player, George's varied and productive life several times has led him back to his home town of Buffalo—and sports.

Possessing an exceptional dedication to the job and sense of humor ("With my career you've gotta have one," he says.), Daddario joined the Braves in March of 1971 as Director of Public Relations and proceeded to play a vital role in helping the club increase its attendance 72 percent over the first year of operation—from 4977 fans per game to 8646.

For his part in helping the Braves boost their attendance more than any other NBA team, George was named a Vice-President of the club and promoted to Director of Sales and Marketing.

But success is not new to the jovial, hard-working Daddario, who compiled a five-year minor league baseball batting average of .317 after winning 11 letters and being selected to four All-City teams in football and baseball at Buffalo's Kensington High.

George then gained front office experience as a general manager of minor league teams at Guelth, Ont., and Olean, N. Y., while furthering his education at the University of Buffalo and Bryant Stratton Business School in Buffalo.

One of his greatest credits was helping the Buffalo Bisons of the International League set minor league attendance records while serving as Director of Public Relations and Promotions from 1958-60.

Daddario then spent nine years in admissions work at Bryant Stratton, with time out for another two-year stint with the Bisons in 1964-65, before joining the Braves' staff.

George and his wife, Lucille, reside in Williamsville with their six children. They are Donna 18, Frank 17, George Jr. 16, Paul 12, Danny 10, and Diane 9.

RUDY MARTZKE

Publicity Director

Besides becoming an integral part of the Buffalo sports community in his first year with the Braves in 1972-73, Martzke helped initiate legislation among the NBA's public relations directors that has resulted in the institution of a league press pass as well as the inclusion of the blocked shots, the statistical categories of steals and offensive and defensive rebounds on league box scores for the coming season.

Martzke, 31, was the Public Relations Director and a scout for the Floridians of the American Basketball Association in 1971-72.

A native of South Milwaukee, Wis., he served as a student aide in the University of Wisconsin sports information department while obtaining his degree in journalism in 1964. Martzke's experience also includes a year as the Public Relations Director of the St. Louis Hawks of the NBA prior to their move to Atlanta and two years as Sports Information Director at St. Louis University.

Rudy has been a member of sports staffs of several Wisconsin newspapers while attending college. He also served as a sportswriter for the Metro-East Journal of East St. Louis, Ill., and the St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Martzke joined the Floridians, who were based in Miami, after a year as Sports Editor of the Valley News of Lebanon, N. H., where he was awarded a first place in the 1971 New England Sportswriting contest conducted by United Press International and an honorable mention in the U. S. Basketball Writers Association contest.

A former member of the Baseball Writers Association of America and the College Sports Information Directors of America. Martzke presently is a member of the U. S. Basketball Writers Association and the executive committee of the Dunlop Sports Award Dinner in Buffalo.

Rudy and his wife, Phyllis, reside in Williamsville. They have two sons, Michael, 5, and Brett, 2.

Height: 6-3
Weight: 185
Age: 22
Born: July 10, 1951 Trinidad
Residence: Brooklyn, N. Y.
NBA Experience: None
How Acquired: 3rd Round Draft Choice 1973

THIS SEASON: A tough, hard-nosed player who is several degrees advanced on defense beyond a normal rookie, Charles is expected to see considerable duty as a backup guard in his first pro season.

LAST YEAR: Charles earned all-Eastern honors as well as all-New York Metropolitan Area and Honorable Mention All-America in averaging 24.3 points for Fordham. The 679 points he scored was an all-time single season record at Fordham. In addition, his .453 shooting percentage and five rebound average were good marks for a backcourtman. He spent the summer participating in New York's well respected Rucker League, taking time out to tally 32 points and register nine steals in a pair of games involving the Braves rookies and the Philadelphia 76er yearlings.

CAREER HISTORY: Ken finished as Fordham's third all-time leading scorer with 1,697 points in 84 games for a 20.2 average. His hustling play as a junior sparked the Rams into the National Invitation Tournament in New York. Charles averaged 27.8 points and shot 52 percent for the Fordham freshman team.

NOTES: An excellent student, Ken plans to attend the University of Buffalo Law School. Charles played guard opposite Charlie Scott of the Phoenix Suns in New York's Rucker League last summer on a team coached by sportswriter Pete Vecsey of the New York Daily News.

No. 15 ERNIE DiGREGORIO

1973-74 NBA Rookie of the Year?
Position: Guard
Height: 6-0
Weight: 180
Age: 22
Born: January 15, 1951 No. Providence, R. I.
College: Providence '73
Residence: Buffalo
NBA Experience: None
How Acquired: 1st Round 1973 Draft

THIS SEASON: Ernie D, as he has come to be known to basketball fans across the country, will have an excellent chance of following teammate Bob McAdoo as NBA Rookie of the Year. The charismatic DiGregorio will have the ball a great deal, and when he deals it off, the fun will begin. It is hoped that his ability to direct a fastbreak and an offense better than most players will be the catalyst the Braves need to break out of the depths of the NBA. He is truly the most exciting player to break into the NBA in several years.

LAST YEAR: Ernie did it all in 72-73, directing Providence to a 27-4 record including a victory over Maryland, and a fourth place finish in the NCAA finals, capturing the hearts of 42 million television viewers with his sleight of hand heroics with a basketball. He then topped that feat by leading the U. S. team to a 4-2 triumph over the Russians in the international series. Ernie D won MVP honors for efforts such as the 25 points he scored in pacing the come-from-behind 89-80 overtime triumph in New York's Madison Square Garden. Selected to the Associated Press All-America team, he averaged 24.6 points and 8.6 assists a game for the Friars after being passed over in selection for the 1972 U. S. Olympic Team. Ernie also received the Joe Lapchick Memorial Trophy as outstanding senior collegiate player in the nation, was voted Player of the Year in the 211-school Eastern College Athletic Conference and in New England.

CAREER: Practicing 6-8 hours a day for 10-12 years, in his own words, paid off handsomely for the 6-footer, who has had to prove himself to opponents and fans each time out because of his lack of size. A highly sought star both in high school in North Providence and in prep school, Ernie went on to lead the Friars to a 68-18 (.791) three year record and won the applause and admiration of fans everywhere with his ball handling and passing wizardry. Providence's new Civic Center rocked with an average of 10,348 fans in Ernie's senior year. He finished as the Friars' all-time assists leader with 527 in 86 games (6.1 avg.) and ranks behind only Jimmy Walker of Houston in Providence career scoring with a 20.5 average.

NOTES: Ernie was married June 2 to Susan Percival of Pawtucket, R. I. They will make their home in Buffalo. Already a young entrepreneur, Ernie plans to market his Ernie D hats and T-shirts. The hopes and fears of Braves fans ran the gamut last May as Ernie fluctuated between offers from Kentucky of the ABA and the Braves before signing with Buffalo.

No. 30 JIM GARVIN

Position: Forward
Height: 6-7
Weight: 200
Age: 23
Born: Feb. 5, 1950 Hurts, Va.
College: Boston University '73
Residence: Boston, Mass.
NBA Experience: None
How Acquired: 17th Round 1973 Draft

THIS SEASON: A tremendous leaper with an improving shooting touch, Garvin is making the adjustment from college center to pro forward look easy. His quickness enables him to gain surprising rebound position over most foes. He should see spot duty in the corners this year.

LAST YEAR: Jim was the second leading rebounder in New England last season behind Providence's Marvin Barnes with an average 13.7 a game while hitting at a 17.2 point clip. He shot .449 from the field. His rebounding also paced the Yankee Conference. Garvin was selected to the first team All-Yankee Conference and second team District 1 All-New England.

CAREER HISTORY: Garvin finished as the top rebounder in BU history with 935 for 12.8 rpg and the school's third best scorer of all-time with 1151 points for a 15.1 average. He was named most valuable player of the team in his sophomore and senior years. He went to BU after starring in high school in Washington, D. C.

NOTES: Jim, who was married last summer, probably was the biggest surprise of the Braves' rookie camp and then the fall training camp as he continually outleaped veterans and more famous foes. He was a straight A student in his senior year at Boston University.

No. 24 GAR HEARD

Position: Forward

Height: 6-6

Weight: 220

Age: 25

Born: May 3, 1948 Hogansville, Ga.

College: Oklahoma '70

Residence: Atlanta, Ga.

NBA Experience: Seattle, Chicago, Buffalo, 4th year

How Acquired: From Chicago along with Kevin Kunnert for John Hummer and 2nd Round Draft Choice.

THIS SEASON: Gar is expected to give Braves the strongest depth at forward in the club's history. He could be a spot starter as well as the No. 1 forward reserve. His chief assets will be rebounding, defense and a good outside shooting touch.

LAST YEAR: Despite playing only 19.2 minutes a game, Gar had his best season as a pro. Used as a spot starter and first reserve for Bob Love and Chet Walker, Heard averaged 10.1 points and shot .425 from the field in 81 games. One of his efforts was a 29-point outburst against the Braves on Dec. 9 in a 105-94 Bulls' victory. He averaged 10.3 points in 78 games for the Bulls after being acquired from Seattle after the third game of the season in exchange for forward Kennedy McIntosh and the Sonics' No. 2 draft choice.

CAREER HISTORY: Gar was the No. 3 draft choice of the Sonics in 1970 after starring for present Phoenix Suns coach John McLeod at Oklahoma. He averaged 5.9 points and 5.0 rebounds in 1970-71, then had won a starting job in training camp the following season when he suffered a pulled hip muscle that sidelined him for 24 games in 1972-73. Nevertheless, he averaged 7.9 points and 7.6 rebounds in 58 games for the Sonics that season. Heard had starred for three years at Oklahoma, earning All-Big Eight honors and being named most valuable in the Volunteer Classic and Marshall Invitational tournaments. He averaged 22 points and 12 rebounds in his senior year at Oklahoma. One of his teammates at OU was center Cliff Ray, now with the Chicago Bulls.

NOTES: A bachelor, Heard resides in Atlanta in the off-season. He was born in Hogansville, Ga., but went to high school in La Grange, Ga. He was one of the most popular Sonics, boasting his own vocal "Heardies Geardies" fan club. Heard has picked up the nickname "Gar" in his travels.

No. 11 BOB McADOO

1972-73 NBA Rookie of the Year

Position: Forward

Height: 6-10

Weight: 215

Age: 22

Born: September 25, 1951 Greensboro, N. C.

College: North Carolina '73

Residence: Greensboro, N. C.

NBA Experience: Buffalo, 2nd year

How Acquired: 1st Round 1972 Draft

THIS SEASON: Big Mac figures to be ready for a full season of stardom on his way to becoming an NBA superstar for the next decade. He has all the attributes—quickness, speed, height and an excellent shooting touch—and now he figures to get the ball at the most opportune times with the light-fingered Ernie DiGregorio operating in the backcourt. Continued improvement on defense will help him achieve that superstar status at an earlier stage. Learning the intricacies of NBA defensive play is another of McAdoo's goals this season. Watch for Mac to rank among the shotblocking leaders.

LAST YEAR: Mac conquered an early period of adjustment to come on strong and easily outdistance all others in the NBA Rookie of the Year race. He was also selected the top rookie by Basketball Weekly, Basketball News and the Sporting News. He finished with totals of 18.0 points (second on the team), 9.2 rebounds (3rd), 2.7 blocked shots (2nd) and shooting percentages of .452 from the field and .774 from the foul line. But his statistics over the final 56 games from mid-December should be more indicative of his future in the NBA: 23 ppg, 11 reb, 48 percent shooting from the field and 80 percent on free throws. In addition, McAdoo bested such proven veterans as George Trapp, Connie Hawkins (in a memorable 50-46 game) and Curtis Rowe to reach the semifinals of the nationally televised NBA One-On-One contest before losing to eventual winner Geoff Petrie of Portland. Mac also set a Braves single game scoring record of 45 points in the team's final game against Houston, tallying the record breaking points on a driving dunk shot over back-peddling 6-11 George Johnson as the buzzer was sounding.

CAREER: Bob has been a standout on every level of competition in a career which telescoped him into the NBA after just one year of major college competition at North Carolina. He starred at Vincennes, Ind., JC for two years, pacing them to the National JUCO title in 1970, then was the rallying point of the 1971-72 North Carolina team that went 26-5, won the Atlantic Coast Conference title and placed third in the NCAA tourney. Mac made every all-tourney team that year and was voted MVP of the ACC. A member of the U. S. Pan American team in 1971, Bob hit the winning basket against Brazil in Cali, Columbia. A former state high jump champion, Mac also was an all-state cager at Smith High in Greensboro.

NOTES: Bob married Brenda Newsome, a former coed at North Carolina, during the 1972-73 season in Buffalo. They reside in Greensboro in the off-season, where he participates in basketball camps conducted by his former college coach, Dean Smith. One of those who has an acknowledged fear of flight, Bob is a marked man on trips by the widebrimmed hat that he pulls down over his eyes.

No. 44 BOB KAUFFMAN

Team Captain

Position: Center-Forward
Height: 6-8
Weight: 240
Age: 27
Born: July 13, 1946 Brooklyn, N. Y.
Residence: Williamsville, N. Y.
NBA Experience: Seattle, Chicago, Buffalo 6th year
How Acquired: Trade with Philadelphia for Bailey Howell, May 11, 1970

THIS SEASON: Now an established star in the NBA, Bob fills the role of the rugged rebounder and stabilizing influence on a talented front line that also includes Jim McMillian and 72-73 Rookie of the Year Bob McAdoo. One of the best shooting big men in the NBA, Kauffman will be called up to run as he did for the Braves 3 years ago as the club attempts to incorporate the fast break into its attack with the addition of Ernie DiGregorio.

LAST YEAR: For the 3rd year in a row, Kauffman finished among the team's leaders in most statistical categories and represented the Braves on the East Team in the NBA's midseason All-Star Game in voting by writers and broadcasters. Bob topped the Braves in field goal shooting with a .505 mark and tied for 9th in the NBA. He saw more action than any other player on the team, 39.6 minutes a game, placed 2nd in rebounding with an 11.1 avg. and 3rd in scoring with 17.5 an outing. And Bob's top months, December and January, coincided with the Braves best stretch in 1972-73. Bob was named Braves captain this past season.

CAREER: An institution for the Braves in the Buffalo area after just 3 seasons, Bob holds almost all of the club's career statistical marks. Only free throw accuracy leadership—he is 5th at .770—escapes him. Most importantly, Bob has played in more games (232) and more minutes (9032), scored more points (4398), averaged more points (19.1) and grabbed more rebounds (2479) than any other Brave. It wasn't until 1970, though, when he was acquired by the Braves from Philadelphia for Bailey Howell that he came into his own as a professional. He led the Braves in scoring (20.4), rebounding (10.7) and assists (4.5) in 1970-71 and earned selection to the All-Star Game. The No. 1 draft choice of Seattle in 1968 after starring as a two time small college All-America at Guilford, N. C. College, he saw reserve duty for the Sonics and the Chicago Bulls in 1-year stints before coming to the Braves on the same day he was also traded from Chicago to Philadelphia.

NOTES: One of the original Braves of 1970, Bob was the first team member to reside permanently in the Buffalo area. Bob, his wife Judy and daughters Lara, 4 and Carey, 8 months, live in Williamsville where he is an avid gardener. Bob, who makes many appearances in the Buffalo area for the Braves, also served as camp director at the Braves basketball camp at Snyder's Darien Lake Resort last summer. He also serves as a guest instructor at many other summer basketball camps. An outstanding pro athlete, businessman and citizen, Kauffman was nominated by the Buffalo Chamber of Commerce as one of America's 10 outstanding Young Men of 1974 in competition conducted by the U. S. Jaycees.

No. 5 HOWARD "Butch" KOMIVES

Position: Guard

Height: 6-1

Weight: 185

Age: 31

Born: May 9, 1942

College: Bowling Green '64

Residence: Toledo, Ohio

NBA Experience: New York, Detroit, Buffalo, 10th Year

How Acquired: Trade with Detroit for a 2nd round draft choice, Sept. 29, 1972.

THIS SEASON: One of the fiercest competitors in basketball, Komives lends much needed experience and craftiness to one of the youngest backcourts in the NBA. His defensive prowess and ability to put pressure on opposing teams by employing the lost art of driving to the basket makes him an asset to any team.

LAST YEAR: Butch spent most of 72-73 as a firstline reserve after coming to the Braves from the Pistons for a draft choice during the preseason training camp. He averaged 6.1 points and finished second on the club in free throw percentage at .867. He also contributed an average of 3.6 assists despite playing just 21.9 minutes a game in 67 games. A back injury forced him to miss the final seven games of the season. Butch's two free throws after the buzzer gave the Braves a 127-125 triumph at Atlanta Jan. 18.

CAREER: The nation's leading major college scorer in his senior year at Bowling Green, O., University, Komives was selected by New York Knicks general manager Eddie Donovan (now Braves' GM) on the second round of the '64 NBA draft. He averaged 12.2 points in his rookie season and 13.9 and a career high of 15.7 in his next two seasons. He played four and one-half seasons with the Knicks before being traded on Dec. 19, 1968 along with Walt Bellamy to Detroit for Dave DeBusschere. The hustling Komives carries a 10.5 career scoring average in nine seasons in the NBA. He has averaged almost four assists per game during that stretch. He has participated in playoffs during 1966-67 and 1967-68, both with the Knicks.

NOTES: Butch and his wife, Gloria, reside in the Toledo, O., suburb of Maumee in the off-season with their sons, David, 9, Christopher, 7 and Shane, 5 months.

No. 5 JIM McMILLIAN

Position: Forward

Height: 6-5

Weight: 225

Age: 25

Born: March 11, 1948 Raeford, N. C.

College: Columbia '70

Residence: Los Angeles, Calif.

NBA Experience: Los Angeles, Buffalo, 4th Year

How Acquired: From Los Angeles in trade for Elmore Smith, Sept. 17, 1973.

THIS SEASON: Jim is the small, quick forward the Braves have been seeking to mesh with the club's new fastbreak offense. A consistently good shooter with all-around skills, McMillian is regarded as one of the premier forwards in basketball.

LAST YEAR: McMillian narrowly missed selection to the NBA All-Star Game as he led the Lakers and finished 11th in the league in free throw percentage with .845. His 18.9 points a game average was a career high in his third pro year. A durable player, he missed only one game of the 82 the Lakers played. He did not foul out of a game despite playing an average of 36.5 minutes an outing. Jim then turned in an excellent playoff series, averaging points in 17 games as the Lakers went to the finals before losing to New York, 4-1. He set a regular season career scoring high of 42 points versus Portland.

CAREER HISTORY: Jim emerged as a star in the NBA during the playoffs of his rookie year, 1970-71, when he averaged 15.1 points after garnering 8.4 in the shadow of the great Elgin Baylor in the regular season. McMillian was the Lakers' No. 1 draft choice in 1970 after being selected a two-time All-America at Columbia University and being voted the MVP of the New York Metropolitan area in each of his three varsity seasons.

NOTES: A bachelor, Jim is a resident of Los Angeles. He was born in Raeford, N. C., but learned his basketball in the New York area. Jim's younger brother, Lloyd, 19, is expected to be a sophomore starter at Loyola of Los Angeles this season.

Age: 25

Born: Oct. 15, 1948 Downey, Calif.

College: Brigham Young '70

Residence: Provo, Utah

Pro Experience: Chicago (NBA) 70-71; Pittsburgh (ABA) 71-72

How Acquired: Free Agent, 1973

THIS SEASON: A spunky, hard-hitter, Ruffner has challenged for a spot on the Braves roster through his strong play in rookie camp and the team's training camp. He is expected to be a backup center to Bob Kauffman and an occasional starter.

LAST YEAR: Paul worked on his graduate degree at Brigham Young, then played in the Los Angeles summer pro league after attending the Braves' rookie camp.

CAREER HISTORY: Like Jim Eakins and Craig Raymond before him, Paul was a star center at BYU. The Chicago Bulls made him their No. 2 draft choice in 1970, but he averaged only 3.4 points in 10 games before they sent him to Arlington Heights, Ill., of the Continental League for more seasoning. That following summer of 1971 he figured in the only trade in history between the NBA and ABA, going to the Pittsburgh Condors in the Howard Porter deal. Paul averaged 5.7 points and shot .478 from the field in 79 games in 1971-72 for the Condors.

No. 9 RANDY SMITH

Position: Guard
Height: 6-3
Weight: 180
Age: 24
Born: December 12, 1948 Bellport, L. I., N. Y.
College: Buffalo State '71
Residence: Buffalo
NBA Experience: Buffalo, 3rd year
How Acquired: 7th Round 1971 Draft

THIS SEASON: With two seasons of experience under his belt, Randy has established himself as a backcourt starter for the Braves. In fact, his exceptional speed, quickness and leaping ability should enable him to be the prime benefactor of an improved fastbreak triggered by newcomer Ernie DiGregorio. In the Club's search for speed, Randy also could see spot action at forward.

LAST YEAR: After a slow start Randy came along fast and emerged as one of the top athletes in the NBA. His patented reverse dunk shot on offense was combined with new defensive attributes, which included the quickest hands in the league. It was largely because of Randy's unofficial league-leading total of 245 thefts (3.0 avg.) that steals become an official NBA statistic this season. Now Randy can officially embarrass Walt Frazier and other well known NBA defensive standouts. Randy was the only Brave to play in all 82 games as he extended his team record consecutive game playing streak to 97. He also set a club single season record of 422 assists for a 5.1 average. Randy finished fourth on the team in both scoring with a 14.8 average—up 1.5 mark over 71-72—and in rebounding with a 4.8 mark. His season highlights were a career high 33 point effort in a victory at Baltimore Dec. 29, forcing Charlie Scott into 9 turnovers while totaling 7 steals and 9 assists himself in a triumph over Phoenix Dec. 5 and setting a club single quarter scoring record of 23 points at Boston Oct. 20.

CAREER: A crowd favorite at the Auditorium for several years through his days at Buffalo State, Randy's exploits of speed and quickness and his reverse dunks now are drawing "ooohs" and "aaahs" in other NBA cities. The fastest player in the NBA, according to Braves coach Jack Ramsay, was an All-America in track, basketball and soccer while at Buffalo State. He holds the school high jump mark of 6-10¾. Randy led the Bengals to three straight SUNY Conference titles and was the leading scorer in the 1970 College Division tourney in Evansville, Ind., where he was named to the all-tournament team. Randy has averaged 14.2 points and 4.8 rebounds in two years with the Braves.

NOTES: A bachelor, the Bellport, L. I., native now makes his home in Buffalo. He makes numerous appearances for the Braves as well as at basketball camps in the off-season.

No. 13 DAVE WOHL

Position: Guard
Height: 6-2
Weight: 185
Age: 23
Born: Nov. 2, 1949
College: Pennsylvania '71
Residence: East Brunswick, N. J.
NBA Experience: Philadelphia, Portland, Buffalo, 3rd year
How Acquired: On waivers from Portland, Dec. 6, 1972

THIS SEASON: Dave is expected to alternate with Ernie DiGregorio as the Braves playmaking guard. He has sneaky quickness, the ability to penetrate and a good shooting touch that keeps the defense honest. He makes the smart plays on offense and can handle his own on defense.

LAST YEAR: Wohl was an asset to the Braves after joining them in December. His shooting accuracy—a creditable .456—was a bonus as he led the Braves in assists per minutes played. He averaged 4.6 assists while playing just 27.5 minutes a game. Wohl averaged 8.8 points and .790 on free throws in the final 56 games after being claimed on waivers from Portland. He had been traded by Philadelphia to Portland for center Dale Schlueter just prior to the opening of the season. Dave turned in a 10 assist effort at Phoenix and set a career high of 27 points in a victory at Seattle on Feb. 11.

CAREER HISTORY: Wohl was the crafty sparkplug guard of the outstanding University of Pennsylvania teams that won three straight Ivy League titles and compiled a combined record of 53-3 in the final two seasons. Dave averaged 15 points while playing with the likes of Corky Calhoun, Phil Hankinson and Bob Morse. The third draft choice of the 76ers in 1971, Wohl averaged 8.1 points and 2.9 assists while playing an average of 20.6 minutes in 79 games for present Brave coach Jack Ramsay at Philadelphia in his rookie year.

NOTES: A bachelor, Dave spent much of his summer sharpening his basketball skills in the New Jersey Shore League. He is a resident of East Brunswick, N. J. On the numerous trips the Braves make during the season, wiles away his time by composing poetry. Some of his work has been good enough to publish.
